AMOUNTS

- All amounts listed are a general guide.
- They may take 2 bites or 20.
- Do not worry about it!

POSITION

To start, sit the baby in a bouncy seat on the floor. Sit across from them and appear relaxed.

WHEN DO I START?

Between 4 and 6 months. When they're sitting up with minimal support AND reaching for your food, that's a good cue!

GOAL

Introduce your baby to a wonderful variety of tastes and textures by adding a new baby food about every 3 days. Look out; they make faces and they spit! Don't get discouraged. They will get it. Let the messy taste testing begin!

Bravely forge on and continue to expose
these amazing,
adaptable
babies to a variety of STAGE
TWO AND THREE
foods.

Next Milestone: Around seven
months of age,
we are going to add some
mushable,
pea-sized finger foods!

Whoopee!!

Tips

- Mix cereal according to the directions on the box.
- Baby Foods are best tolerated about an hour after breast/bottle feeding (so the baby will be a little bit hungry).
- Once you have mastered the first 3 foods (pears, squash, apples) you can begin to substitute any STAGE ONE food of your choosing.
- Once you move to STAGE TWO foods, you can really branch out.
- Enjoy yourself. This should be relaxed, messy and super fun.
